

VII: The Bible. Part A.

Part A -- Biblical Texts
Part B -- Biblical Studies

The majority of the texts are of the 12th and 13th centuries and written in Greek, Latin or English; in addition there is a 9th century text of St. Paul's Epistles, the Codex Augiensis (Ms. 412).

An impressive proportion of the manuscripts of Biblical Studies are early in date, and many have a Canterbury provenance. The commentaries of saints Gregory, Jerome, Augustine and Ambrose are particularly well represented, as is Bede. A Berengaudus commentary on the Apocalypse (Ms. 15) is particularly important. There are also some later Greek manuscripts of the 14th century. A manuscript of outstanding importance is the Epistolae Pauli (Ms. 216) which is in Bede's own hand.
