SECTION III: THEOLOGY/NEW COLLEGE

Founded in 1379 by William Wykeham the college contains more of its mediaeval library than any other college at Oxford or Cambridge. The founder gave 240 manuscripts and these reflect its original role: the education of priests and lawyers. The collection of humanist texts from Italy and Germany is also particularly strong. New College has also been fortunate in attracting bequests up to the present day and these include some fine illuminated Books of Hours and Law Texts.
